Eightieth Congress Session Came To Close In Early Hours Of Sunday Morning

ACHIEVEMENT OF SESSION NOTABLE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The 80th Congress was in adjournment today after seven months of continuous work, but the threat of a special fall session hung over members as they streamed for their homes.

Members left behind them a great deal of unfinished business plus the knowledge that the critical European economy may compel President Truman or Republican leaders to call them back to consider the so-called Marshall plan.

Congress appropriated close to one billion $800 million dollars in foreign aid—$400 million for Greece and Turkey, $32 million for war-devastated countries, and one billion twenty five million dollars for occupied areas, but may be asked to furnish billions more for the reconstruction of war-torn Europe.

Sixteen European nations now are meeting in Paris reviewing their resources and estimating their needs in accordance with a suggestion of Secretary of State Marshall that the United States might make up the deficit in the interests of world economic recovery.

A special 19-member house committee, fortified with $125,000 will tour Europe during the congressional recess, studying foreign needs. Their findings will do much to influence the House in arriving at a decision on whether to furnish financial assistance for the Marshall plan.

Way Open For Special Session

The president said he foresaw no need for a special session, but Congress left the way open for one by authorizing House and Senate Republican leaders to reconvene.

But despite the international tensions the final revel fell on a happy Congress early Sunday as the first session of the first Republican.

Dear Pa New: I would like to tell you that my father, C. H. Chambers, who resides in West Pittsburg, had been in the hospital for some time, and also two ripe tomatoes, Mrs. Evelyn Allen, R. D. 7, Mahoningtown.

Pa New: Mrs. W. R. Dice, of Little Beaver township had sweet corn out of her garden on Saturday, July 26. Mrs. D. R. Dice, New Galilee.

Sunday evening rains were general for a distance of at least 115 miles one Pa New discovered, returning from a trip to Clearfield County. Very heavy rains fell just east of Kittanning, making it almost impossible to see the highway for several minutes. Some discouraging looking crops of corn were noted along the route.

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 28.—President Truman will pay a final and farewell today to the little 94-year-old mother who was his inspiration and guide on the path that led to the White House.

A private funeral will be held at 3 o'clock (CST) this afternoon in the small, old-fashioned yellow frame cottage in which Mrs. Mary Ellen Truman spent the last years of a long life that ended in her death last Saturday morning.

Services Private
Only members of the immediate family and two attending physicians, Dr. Joseph W. Greene, the family physician of Independence, Mo., and Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the Presidential physician will attend the funeral.

Burial will follow in the Forest Hill cemetery on the southern outskirts of Kansas City. The burial services, too, will be private.

The matron of the Truman clan will be buried in a simple navy blue dress, her favorite.

She purchased the dress for a visit to her Presidential son at the White House that never took place. She planned to make her second visit to Washington early this year. The fall in February that broke her right hip and eventually brought her death after a five-month struggle against heavy odds, prevented the trip.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR
PRESIDENT'S MOTHER

will be conducted by the Rev. W. Ben Bowman, pastor of the Grandview Baptist church, which Mrs. Truman attended.

She will be buried beside the President's father, John Anderson Truman, who died 33 years ago.

Body Reposes in Bedroom
The body lay this morning in a silver, gray metal casket in the bedroom in which she died as the President sped by plane from Washington to her bedside.

The bedroom is just off the living room in the front of the cottage, where the President spent many anxious hours during his 12-day visit in May when his mother was near death.

Funeral services will be held for the family in the living room, where the President, tired and anxious, spent the greater part of the Sabbath at the cottage with his daughter, Mrs. Truman, brother, Vivian, sister, Mary Jane, and other members of the Truman family.

Neighbors and close friends from this cross-roads hamlet, from the metropolis of Kansas City, 18 miles away, from Independence, where the President has his home, from other villages and from other villages and from the rural country, made a constant pilgrimage to the little frame cottage during the day to offer their sympathy to the President and family.

The President received them graciously in the living room. There were hushed words of condolence. Then Mary Jane, who nursed her mother throughout her long illness, conducted them into the bedroom to the open casket.

Only a cluster of red roses at the foot of the casket was the only floral adornment.

Before she died, Mother Truman told Mary Jane she would prefer that flowers be sent instead to the loved ones of her friends still living.

Hundreds of messages of sympathy continued to be received by the President from all parts of the world. A host of the messages came from just a few people.

The President returned to his home in Independence last night to be with the first lady and his daughter, who have been spending the summer there.

Chemists Hope
To Make Virus
A Benefactor

Scourge Of Mankind May Be Turned To Beneficial Use
Under New Discovery

CHICAGO, July 28.—(INS)—Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, Princeton, N. J., recently revealed research which may result in what has been described as one of the greatest triumphs of modern medicine.

Dr. Stanley, who shared the Nobel Prize in chemistry last year for his work on viruses, said that the virus, aged-old scourge of all living things, may be converted by chemical science into a benefactor of mankind.

Structure Modifications
The renowned chemist stated that these small, mysterious agents, being subjected to modifications of structure which may result in using virus activity for beneficial purposes.

Dr. Stanley reported that chemists are now trying to produce beneficial strains through chemical reactions in the test tube rather than depending on chance mutations in order to secure backward virus strains.

Notable progress has been made in experiments with the virus causing the tobacco plant disease known as tobacco mosaic.

First Example of Modification
"It is believed," he said, "that the present results provide the first example of the modification of virus activity by means of definite, known and reproducible changes in the chemical structure of virus."

Dr. Stanley added that these results "lead encouragement to the belief that eventually inimitable structural changes will be achieved in the chemical laboratory."

The actual accomplishment of this objective will represent a feat of major importance, for it would carry with it indications of increasing significance to medicine, biology, genetics, chemistry, and physics.

The American Chemical Society recently gave Dr. Stanley the William Gibbs Model of its Chicago section.

CONGRESS SESSION

IS ENDED; SPECIAL CALL MAY DEVELOP

Congress in 16 years came to a close.

The 80th Congress left behind it a record of achievement. Heading the list perhaps was the unification of the war and navy departments into a single national defense establishment. Congress also passed the Taft-Hartley labor bill over the president's veto, but failed twice to enact a four billion dollar reduction in individual income taxes over White House disapproval. Another try may be made next year.

Other Accomplishments

Other major accomplishments of the first session included legislation banning postal-to-postal pay suits, submission to the states of a constitutional amendment limiting a president to two terms, extension of rent controls, and a new presidential succession act which placed the speaker of the House next in line to the White House behind the president and vice president.

Turning the unfinished legislative agenda for the next session, whether it be in the fall or Jan. 6, when Congress would normally convene for its second session, are such major items as compulsory universal military training, national housing legislation, increased minimum wages, federal financial aid for schools, anti-poll tax legislation, a fair employment practices commission, an anti-lynching law, and the St. Lawrence seaway.

Kids Agog Over 'Air Roundhouse'

ISLIP, L. I., N. Y.—(INS)—In olden days, when grandpa wanted to find junior on Saturday afternoon, she usually had to look no farther than the railroad roundhouse.

Today, in this modern Long Island community, mothers still look for their sons at the roundhouse. But, in keeping with the time, it is a roundhouse for airplanes.

Hangars And Shops

At nearby MacArthur Airport, which was a wartime Army and Navy base, are the hangars and shops of Lockheed Aircraft Service, which does for huge two and four-engine airplanes what any fully equipped roundhouse does for monster locomotives.

Activities at the base, viewed safely from behind wire fences, excite the imagination of the small fry just as begrimed and oily engines and puffing engines elated their fathers.

Initial testimony was to lay the foundation for later sensational evidence on Meyer's entertaining proclivities. The senators called as their first witness a former WPB official to explain how Hughes won the first of his government aircraft contracts.

'Hot-Cold' Pipe Puzzles Science

PITTSBURGH, July 28.—(INS)—The mysterious behavior of a 15-inch pipe has Westinghouse Corp. scientists puzzled—it blows hot air out one end and cold air out the other.

The "hot-cold" pipe may lead to "unexpected discoveries" the scientists said, but they still are not sure "what actually happens" inside the device.

Achieves Dream of Physicists

It does, however, achieve a dream of physicists by separating the elements of heat and cold present in every gas, they added.

The device operated like this: Compressed air is pumped into the pipe where it strikes a steel spiral. Then it is converted into a whirlpool of rapidly spinning gases. The air in the center of the whirlpool becomes cold and goes out one end while the air on the outside gets hot and goes out the other.

"Why" this happens is still a question, however.

A French scientist contended that if the tongue is long, it denotes frankness; if broad, expansiveness; if narrow, concentration; and, if long and wide, a weakness for gossiping.

JOHNSON-DeHOFF EVENING WEDDING

Miss Elsie Elizabeth Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Johnson, of 703 Oak street, became the bride of Herbert DeHoff, Jr., son of Herbert DeHoff, of R. D. 1, Kirk road, Canfield, O., at a candlelight ceremony Sunday evening, July 27, at 7:30 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church.

Before the altar backed with palms and ferns, Rev. E. Leppaluoto heard the exchange of vows at the single ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. E. W. Lehto, of Ashtabula Harbor.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white marquisette over satin with a misty yoke trimmed with seed pearls fashioned with a voluminous skirt that ended in a long train. Her finger ring fell from a crown of orange blossoms and her colonial bouquet was of all white flowers.

As her maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Eleanor Johnson, wore a gown of marquisette over taffeta and Miss Vivian Johnson, also a sister, as bridesmaid, wore a pink gown of marquisette over taffeta. Both carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers.

Leonard DeHoff, of Canfield, O., served his brother as best man. Organ music was played by Miss Miriam Karki, organist, and Mrs. Johnston, the bride's father, sang "O Promise Me" and the Lord's Prayer.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for 300 guests in the church parlor.

The bride and groom left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination and on their return they will make their home in an apartment in Canfield, O.

Mrs. DeHoff, a graduate of New Castle high school, has been employed by the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. DeHoff, a graduate of Elmhurst high school, is connected with the Isaly Company.

DIETTERLE-VANDUSEN WEDDING AUGUST 29

Miss Kathryn Duff of 1504 Delaware Avenue was a charming hostess at a beautiful party, Saturday afternoon, July 26, honoring her sister, Miss Jane Dietterle, a bride-elect of this month.

Twenty-five guests were received on the lawn, where tables were arranged for bridge and five hundred. The winners of these contests were Miss Ann Higgins, Mrs. William Pattee, and Mrs. Nathan Offutt.

Supper was served on a lovely dining room table attractively arranged. A beautiful centerpiece of summer flowers centered the table, and each place was marked with a tiny umbrella made of a handkerchief. Each favor contained a small card on which was written, in code, the information "Jane and Ed have chosen August twenty-ninth 1947, for their wedding day". The interpretation of the message furnished much amusement.

After the meal, the bride-elect and all the guests took part in unwinding a spider web, which finally led them to a shower of gifts beneath a parasol which has been in the family of the hostess for about one hundred years.

The many beautiful gifts received by the honoree are a testimony of the esteem her friends hold for her, and the best wishes they extend for her future happiness.

JOHNSON-DeHOFF EVENING WEDDING

Miss Elsie Elizabeth Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Johnson, of 703 Oak street, became the bride of Herbert DeHoff, Jr., son of Herbert DeHoff, of R. D. 1, Kirk road, Canfield, O., at a candlelight ceremony Sunday evening, July 27, at 7:30 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church.

Before the altar banked with palms and ferns, Rev. E. Leppaluoto heard the exchange of vows at the single ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. E. W. Lehto, of Ashtabula Harbor.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white marquisette over satin with a misty gown trimmed with seed pearls fashioned with a voluminous skirt that ended in a long train. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of orange blossoms and her colonial bouquet was of all white flowers.

As her maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Eleanor Johnson, wore a gown of marquisette over taffeta and Miss Vivian Johnson, also a sister, as bridesmaid, wore a pink gown of marquisette over taffeta. Both carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers.

Leonard DeHoff, of Canfield, O., served his brother as best man.

Organ music was played by Miss Miriam Karki, organist, and Mrs. Johnston, the bride's father, sang "O Promise Me" and the Lord's Prayer.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for 300 guests in the church parlor.

The bride and groom left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination and on their return they will make their home in an apartment in Canfield, O.

Mrs. DeHoff, a graduate of New Castle high school, has been employed by the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. DeHoff, a graduate of Fitch high school, is connected with the Isaly Company.

Second Birthday Feted

Mrs. William B. Dean, of 215 East Wallace avenue, entertained a group of children and their mothers at a birthday party on July 22 from 2 to 5 p. m. in celebration of her son, David Earl Dean's second birthday.

The afternoon hours were spent with games and various amusements. Prizes were given to Linda Johnson, Matthew Smith, Donnie Eppinger, Pattie Homer, Pattie Duran, Sammy Mitchell and Diane Sutton. Later a lunch was served at beautifully decorated tables to the children and their mothers.

Mrs. Dean was assisted by Mrs. Lottie Eppinger, Mrs. Jay Werhnyak and Mrs. J. R. Dean.

SWAN LAKE SCENE OF FAMILY REUNION

Nine cousins and other descendants of Alexander and Abigail Offutt Allen were delightfully entertained Sunday evening for a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Allen, Butler road.

At tables set down along the edge of Swan Lake, a basket picnic dinner was served to 55 relatives and a social time followed during the remainder of the evening.

From a distance Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Allen of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Harold Sutherland and daughter, of Greenville, attended the reunion.

For the 1948 reunion Mrs. W. J. Allen invited the group to her home in Volant. Mrs. Clair Hunt will be co-hostess.

DIETTERLE-VandUSEN WEDDING AUGUST 29

Miss Kathryn Duff of 1504 Delaware Avenue was a charming hostess at a beautiful garden party, Saturday afternoon, July 26, honoring her friend, Miss Jane Dietterle, a bride-elect of this month.

Twenty five guests were received on the lawn, where tables were arranged for bridge and five hundred. The winners of these contests were Miss Ann Higgins, Mrs. William Patco, and Mrs. Nathan Offutt.

Supper was served on a lovely dining room table, attractively arranged. A beautiful centerpiece of summer flowers centered the table, and each place was marked with a tiny umbrella made of a handkerchief. Each favor concealed a small card on which was written, in code, the information "Jane and Ed have chosen August twenty-ninth 1947, for their wedding day". The interpreting of the message furnished much amusement.

After the meal, the bride-elect and all the guests took part in unwinding a spider web, which finally led them to a shower of gifts beneath a parasol which has been in the family of the hostess for about one hundred years.

The many beautiful gifts received by the honoree are a testimony of the esteem her friends hold for her, and the best wishes they extend for her future happiness.

The out-of-town guests attending the party were Mrs. Kenneth B. Marshall of Johnstown, Mrs. William M. Lewis of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Harold Yost, of Ellwood City, and Mrs. James L. Duff, of Beaver.

Miss Dietterle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Dietterle, of Edgewood avenue, will be the bride of Edward Vandusen, son of 236 Fairmont avenue, on August 29.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Senator Brewster Happy Over Probe

WASHINGTON, July 28.—In the hush-hush of the congressional wad-up, tempers were sharp and old feuds were aired. But there is at least one member of congress who is as happy as a small boy on Christmas morning.

That was Sen. Owen Brewster of rock-ribbed Republican Maine. Sen. Brewster, chairman of the war investigating committee, has struck pay dirt. It has the glitter of political gold, and the senator for Maine intends that it shall be as widely advertised as possible.

Brewster looks at the world with a sparkling suspicion. He is always prepared for the worst. And now he has found a cozy scandal that seems to have everything.

If Brewster had dreamed up the investigation into the millions of dollars that went into Howard Hughes' super-cargo plane, it could not be better. The case is out of Hollywood. As in the good old days of the Zigfield follies, the billing is girls, girls, girls.

Lavish parties were financed, presumably at the cost of the taxpayer. Big names are involved—far more names than have yet been disclosed. One mysterious character has gone to Cape Horn, which is about as far as he can get from the scene of the inquiry. This is political gold that pays off in sensational headlines.

Behind the scenes of the lurid drama is a play of forces that has been noted. Sen. Brewster (Continued on Page Five)

The World and the Mud Puddles

LET'S HAVE MORE. A patriotic and ingenious teacher in a Midwestern country school lately interested his pupils in a sort of contest which brought worthwhile results. Following a course of several weeks of study of the governmental systems of our own and other nations, he asked them to write a paper stating what country they would prefer as their home, with the reasons for the preference. The answers were not only unanimous—restoring to his knowledge of the teaching of history—but in some cases almost startling.

One and of fifteen voted that they preferred the United States because the world had only worship God without superstitions, but could choose our own ideal of God. Another, a youth, said that he wanted to become a writer, but that the only place he felt sure he could write (Continued on Page Five)

RULES FOR INFORMAL WEDDING

"I am going to be maid-of-honor at my sister's wedding. She will marry in a suit and the best man will be the best man. Please enlighten me on the proper protocol. Are there any customs that I should know about? Should I kiss the bride and groom after the ceremony? There is to be a large reception at a hotel. How should the wedding line be formed and again what part do I play, if any?"

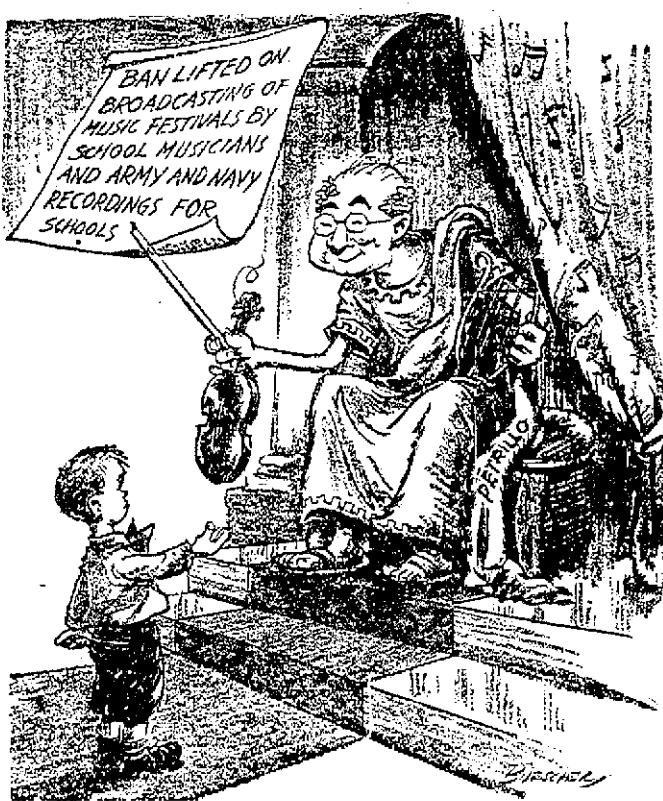

Answer: Bear in mind, as should all guests, that the first one to kiss the bride should be the groom. After that, her mother usually has the next privilege. Then, the other guests may kiss both the bride and the groom. In a wedding such as you describe there is nothing for you to do but act as a witness and be gracious and charming at the reception. At a formal wedding, the maid-of-honor takes care of the bride's bouquet, directs the wedding party in the ceremony and takes care of her train and veil, seeing that they are properly arranged for the procession, and the reception, but you will not have these to attend to. At so informal a wedding only the bride and the groom need stand to receive the good wishes of the guests but the maid-of-honor and the mothers of both the bride and the groom may stand with them. The best man may be the father or the groom's mother, the fathers usually circulate among the guests unless they especially want to be in the receiving line. Arrangements: The bride to the groom's right, next the maid-of-honor, the bride's mother, then the groom's mother who should be introduced to all guests whom she does not know.

Question: Would it be correct for me to wear a formal bridal gown with a small train and my future husband wear his uniform? He is a private in the army. How about the best man and ushers? May they be civilians or must they also be in uniform?

Answer: You may, indeed, wear a formal bridal attire including a train. The ushers and the best man may be in uniform or in civilian clothes. Men in the army and navy are required to wear their uniforms and if their friends are not in the service they may be members of the wedding party, if desired.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOFT DRINKS MAY HARM CHILDREN

While soft drinks are, obviously, safer for children than alcoholic beverages, many children consume far more than are good for them. It is amazing how much fizzy liquid from the soda fountain goes into children's stomachs, especially in summer. Some children begin drinking it in quantity as early as the age of four or five.

Let us consider this matter from three angles: nutrition, nerves, cost.

Considerable Sugar. Practically all soft drinks have considerable sugar in them. Children who consume one or several portions of such between meals may spoil their appetites for meals and for the proper foods. Besides, some children seem to upset their stomachs from excessive indulgence in such drinks, some kinds of them, at least.

Again, it is no secret that some soft drinks are physically stimulating, causing many children, as well as adults, to be jumpy and impairing their sleep. Some parents who would not think of giving a child from five to 12 a cup of coffee or tea, have a similar or even a more exciting effect.

Then, what about the cost involved? Any children could have more milk if less of the family budget were spent on soft drinks, which are a sugar in them, more practically no food value.

Parents would be much wiser to serve their children fruit juices or cold drinks made directly from fresh fruits. Think how much money some fruit juice, with its natural sugar and vitamins, might be had for the money spent on soft drinks consumed by children!

(Sins Money Thriftily. Aside from the merits or demerits of most soft drinks, children who, from their early years, must have one or several servings of soft drink daily are not learning to use money thriftily, no matter what the family income may be. A budgeted allowance might help on this problem.

My special bulletin on allowances may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 44th Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Just because other children have such things daily is no good reason why your child should. Compulsively and occasionally served soft drinks are a bad habit, and the question I am asking concerns the education of the family income spent for such purposes. The bad effects of over-indulgence and habit of demanding luxuries whenever they are desired.

From Me To You

By MESSEBALL

There was excitement in the home town Saturday evening... and a came early too... A professional second story man was just about ready to make his get-away with a little cash when local police stepped in... a very exciting hand-to-hand battle took place with the outcome in favor of the local police... in favor of the middle... But unfortunately the two police also went to the hospital... one in rather serious condition.

Policemen Thomas and Price did a mighty fine job of performing their duty. A running account of the battle can be found in the news columns of this issue... It seems to this scribe that if the mayorship was in these hands it would only be fitting and proper to issue a certificate or medal of honor to the two policemen that were involved in the "fight". It's true they were just doing their duty... but they did it so well they should definitely be recognized in an official way. It's a suggestion Mr. Haven.

With the weather the way it is... sort of dopey like... we have but one thing to be thankful for... that being... no camping this summer. It seems that the last few times we have spent out in the country camping the weather has been like it has been the past few weeks... cold, damp and with dark uninviting days... then when it was time to go home the sun came out and the days were nice and comfortable... This year due to several circumstances it was impossible to make the annual trip... So as the fellow said... there is always some good in every situation... but sometimes you have to look on the bright side to appreciate the good.

Cascade Park however is still getting a big play this summer... more organizations than ever are making the "park" their headquarters... and the folks who like swimming are using the large pool in large numbers... Really folks Cascade Park is a fine place and should be used by all of us for it is our park. So take your next picnic to the beauty spot and beat the traffic problem.

Hints On Etiquette

For formal and semi-formal daytime weddings, a man wears an aspart tie, or four-in-hand in plain colors of blue, gray or black. He may wear stripes or figures in combination with white, light gray, blue or tan, or a bow necktie in the same colors.

Looking At Life

By Erich Brandeis

The temperature is 85. The humidity is 90. It's getting hotter every minute, and if I had my choice I would certainly not be sitting at my typewriter trying to pound out a column.

When I left the country this morning it was nice and cool. We had breakfast on the porch, facing the brook, and I could have spent a perfectly glorious day under the trees with a good book and a cooling drink.

But duty was calling and on my desk upstairs was a pile of bills that had to be paid. Duty—duty—duty—I murmured to myself as I put on a white shirt and a necktie and a coat and a pair of creased pants and my go-to-town shoes.

"Duty be damned," I thought, and I envied the bums and the tramps and the loafers who take life as it comes and care nothing for duty and ambition and obligations and civilization.

As far as I am concerned I could get along without all those requirements of modern society, and nothing would please me better than to give full sway to my innate laziness and natural inertia.

But, unfortunately, I also liked the so-called nice things in life, and it seems that the only way to get them is by working for them.

I have always enjoyed Omar Khayyam, the poet of laziness, much more than Bertie Bruley or Edgar Guest, who sing peans of praise to industry, ambition and go-getting.

And I have a suspicion, that most of you who tell me that you are busy, would rather take it easy and spend your time living rather than making a living.

But then, on the other hand, I understand that Omar Khayyam lived a poor man and died a poor man, while Bertie Bruley and Edgar Guest own their own homes, have automobiles and nice clothes, travel and move in the very best circles.

So I suppose, unless we are satisfied to sit in rags under a tree with a jug of wine, we will just have to go on with our daily grind, no matter whether the temperature is 85 or 100, so that the world may say about us: "Isn't he a successful man?"

I envy the fellows with lots of ambition. I wish I were one of those to whom working is living, who take their business home with them and get as much fun out of making dollars grow as I get out of my flowers and my trees.

But to me—and I am sure to many of you—work is just a means to an end, and the week-end from Friday night to Monday morning is really all that matters, with the rest of the week just an unpleasant interlude.

I hope your children, whom you have taught all the virtues of toil and ambition, won't see this. But if they do, tell them: "See what laziness does to you? You'll be a columnist if you don't look out!" (Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Sometimes a person has a pain or an ache or discomfort in the chest or abdomen. He takes something to make a belch. He feels better pretty soon.

He blames the trouble on "gas" and lets it go at that. It might help some if he would have medical attention.

Words Of Wisdom

Good will, like a good name, is not by many actions, and lost by one—Jeffrey.

NEW YORK—John S. Martin

retiring Omrus officials: "Many United States are using Germany as a football to push the government into the point of having to oppose Communism by spurring a one-for more another capitalistic form of control."

PARIS—Former French Premier Reynaud, in taking a strong stand against the "Nationalistic" foreign policy of the French Communists: "The time has come to crush excessive nationalism. Let us be simply human."

LAKE SUCCESS—British Minister of State George Morrison: "Why do we discover a member of the United Nations not permitting member nations to gather news within its borders or the people of that nation not allowed to receive the news of other nations freely and without hindrance, that nation does not have any real right to claim membership in the United Nations."

VETS GOOD RISK The Wall Street Journal recently described what has happened in the case of the 67,000 government-backed business loans made to veterans since January, 1945.

By and large, the GIs have proven good risks. As of May 25, the last reporting date, only 1412 loans had defaulted, though 118 other borrowers were behind in payments. Blackest spot has been loans made to start little trucking businesses. Percentage of failures has been very high here, due largely to the fact that the ex-service people ran their equipment to death and didn't service it properly. This seems to have been a hang-over from their war experiences, when motor equipment was expendable.

Inside Washington

If You Have Tax Tears Prepare to Shed 'Em Now
Observers See No Relief By Tax Cut Even in 1948
Foremen Are Peeved At John L. Lewis

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Legislative experts that if the GOP tax reduction bill fails to become law this session and is revived next fall or spring, it will not have much chance of ever being enacted. The crystal-ball gazers on Capitol Hill agree that the four-billion dollar tax relief measure, which would cut personal income taxes 10.5 to 30 per cent, reached the crest of its congressional strength on its second round through the mill and would poll less support next year.

There is a possibility that the next session of Congress will vote some reduction in taxes in an overall tax adjustment bill. Next year will be a presidential election year, and both Democrats and Republicans would like to throw the voters a little something.

However, with the rivalry between the United States and Russia becoming more intense, and with government costs sure to rise, any out-and-out tax cut bill is almost certain to have tougher sledding in the coming months.

FLYING DOLLARS—The flying saucers which had the nation's eyeballs popping apparently are mythical, but the aviation industry is seeing flying dollars—the real thing, that is.

The recent increase in congressional appropriations for Navy and Army plane construction means rapid progress in the production of new transonic-type aircraft, and "Brock Bradford" plans more sensational than the famed flying saucers.

Alplane factories are set to produce flying machines with low aspect ratio wings, swept wings and tails, and jet propulsion refinements. Jet engine manufacturers are going all-out in anticipation of large orders from the Army and Navy. They are determined to outstrip the Russians, who are said to have accomplished wonders with the ME-262, a German twin-jet fighter.

Republic aircraft is grooming its P-84 for an assault on the world speed record of 623 miles per hour now held by the Lockheed P-80-R. Look for the Republic plane to attempt the record flight at Muroc Dry Lake, Cal., within the next six weeks.

GI TRAINEES—Some criticism is building up against the GI flight training program, but there is as yet no disposition in Congress to take any action.

Critics assert that the program is not improving veterans' job status in aviation, that some young GIs are wasting their educational rights, that the program is too expensive, and in a few instances has been abused.

Nonetheless, its continuance is assured for at least another year and the Veterans' Administration is expected to pay out $125,000,000 to train some 65,000 veterans to fly a plane in the next 12 months.

Proponents of the program assert that it has stimulated private flying and is helping to keep the country air-minded.

MINE FOREMEN IRKED—You can look for trouble among the coal mine foremen soon. John L. Lewis' new contract didn't take very good care of supervisory workers and they are resentful. One foreman's local already has voted to withdraw from the UMW.

Lewis could not do much on the foremen's issue this time because of the Taft-Hartley law's provision eliminating supervisors from coverage of the Wagner Act.

Lewis did get an agreement, however, with the operators to screen out certain supervisors as eligible for UMW membership, but it may take weeks to get anywhere in the meantime, the foremen are sore.

In the long run, however, all parties know full well that the operators will not deal with a supervisors' union not affiliated with the UMW and the miners won't work with one. So the foremen ultimately will have to trail along with John L.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Ostreicher, INS Foreign Director

Reports that natives on the Dutch East Indies island of Celebes have risen in revolt emphasized the unrelenting gravity of the Indonesian situation today although all indications pointed toward eventual triumph for the government in a war that may prove unparalleled for ferocity of casualties.

This lack of bloodshed was the principal saving factor in a conflict riddled with serious aspects. And not the least of these was the always-present possibility that any native uprising, whether in the East Indies, India, Indo-China or the Middle East, might someday become the spark-plug of an overwhelming rebellion against white domination that could encompass the world.

Of immediate interest Entrance of Celebes into the tangled Pacific situation was of immediate American interest because it once again turned memory back to the old but not forgotten days of the real Pacific war when Gen. Douglas MacArthur seriously considered that lush jungle island as a possible offensive base.

These were the sad, bleak days when MacArthur was tied down on Australia, trying to see through island masses and vast water expanses to a possible path of future advance that would free the Orient from Japanese oppression.

Situated due north of eastern Java, Celebes seemed a likely spot, provided always that the Japanese could be hit hard enough in the East Indies to weaken their force. But it is a huge island, densely wooded, and the Macassar Straits which lap its shores were thoroughly in Japanese naval and aerial hands.

So the high command in the Pacific decided instead to use Halmahera, directly to the east and lying between Celebes and Dutch New Guinea, for the jumping-off place. This was to be called "operation Octopus" for Halmahera is rather in the shape of that strange sea animal.

None of this even transpired, of course. Naval battles and the tremendous aerial offensives launched by the Pacific air force under Gen. George C. Kenney changed the entire picture. The unforgettable battle of Leyte in the Philippines, water-borne invasions of Luzon and Salamis and the almost incredible series of almost successes, one after the other, (Continued on Page Five)

SECOND PLACE GETS ATTENTION

It has been evident throughout the eightieth Congress that both political parties were maneuvering for a good starting position in the 1948 Presidential campaign. Almost as much publicity and attention has been given to the second position as to the principal candidate for the presidential office.

Too frequently in the past the candidate for Vice President was not chosen wisely due to the lack of responsibilities of the office. Political expediency rather than ability and efficiency was the prime requirement.

However, experience has taught presidential makers to use caution. Yet of the thirty-three men who have served as Presidents, seven were Vice Presidents automatically elevated to the office by reason of the death of the elected President.

William Henry Harrison fought the hottest campaign for election and served the shortest term of any President. One month after his election in 1841, he was succeeded by Vice President Tyler.

Zachary Taylor, inaugurated President in 1849 died a year and four months later. The country was on the verge of disruption over slavery. Vice President Fillmore stepped into the White House and temporarily pacified the country by compromises.

Vice President Andrew Johnson became President when Lincoln was assassinated. Johnson and Congress declared war on each other.

President Garfield's assassination elevated Vice President Arthur to the Presidency in 1881. He gave the country a good, but not brilliant, administration.

When the New York political bosses tried to shelve Theodore Roosevelt by making him Vice President, he entered the White House in 1901 upon the assassination of President McKinley.

Calvin Coolidge became President in 1923 upon the sudden death of President Harding. He gave the country a good sound business administration.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt died suddenly at Warm Springs, Ga., in April, 1945, Vice President Harry S. Truman was called upon to finish the war and make the peace.

Incidentally, the Vice President presides over the Senate and votes in case of a tie.

NEW ROADS NEEDED

The greatest road-building program in the history of the country will get under way as soon as labor is available, according to plans announced by many states. It is generally recognized that present highways are inadequate for postwar traffic, but the states can do little about it at present because the labor force that would be necessary for large-scale construction simply is not available.

Higher gasoline and other taxes to finance the building of new roads seem inevitable unless the costs of construction drop greatly. Under present conditions the cost of building a mile of highway is more than double the prewar figure. Whether more adequate roads will cut the traffic accident toll remains to be seen, but that is one of the considerations behind the plans for many super highways which are now in the formative state.

GET OUT AND WALK

Lucky is the man who can walk. He is a rich man for the world is his. Too frequently Americans forget this fact, especially when there is an automobile at their command.

Walking is the best and cheapest exercise for all ages. If it is indulged in sufficiently pills and diets may be thrown away and forgotten. The joys of walking whether in the city or the country never grows stale. When you grow sleepy or dopey get out and walk. When you are blue and out of sorts, get out and walk. Get out under the blue sky and sunshine and you will feel better.

On your vacation or your day off with the sun out in its glory or the moon at its fullness, with a few moments to spare and no desire to spend, get out and walk.

The Good Old Summer were those in which the most important question was whether rain would spoil the Sunday School picnic.

In a way, the tax reduction veto ran true to form. The taxpayer traditionally expects more than politicians condescend to give him.

It is becoming increasingly evident that the war ended just in time. During the war comment on the weather was forbidden.

Of course the fellow who gets into debt is not too well off, but he is still in better shape than the fellow who tries to get into debt and is rejected as a bad risk.

An Illinois woman got ninety days in jail for abandoning her baby in a railway station. If her lawyer had been on the job he would have had her testify she merely left the baby while trying to find a parking place.

Washington Calling

Senator Brewster Happy Over Probe

WASHINGTON, July 28.—In the huggamugger of the congressional wind-up, tempers were sharp and old feuds were aired. But there is at least one member of congress who is as happy as a small boy on Christmas morning.

That was Sen. Owen Brewster of rock-ribbed Republican Maine. Sen. Brewster, chairman of the war investigating committee, has struck pay dirt. It has the glitter of political gold, and the senator for Maine intends that it shall be as widely advertised as possible.

Brewster looks at the world with a darkling suspicion. He is always prepared for the worst. And now he has found a cozy scandal that seems to have everything.

If Brewster had dreamed up the investigation into the millions of dollars that went into Howard Hughes' super-cargo plane, it could not be better. The cast is out of Hollywood. As in the good old days of the Ziegfeld follies, the billing is girls, girls, girls.

Lavish parties were financed, presumably at the cost of the taxpayer. Big names are involved—far more names than have yet been disclosed. One mysterious character has gone to Cape Horn, which is about as far as he can get from the scene of the inquiry. This is political gold that pays off in sensational headlines.

Behind the scenes of the lurid drama is a play of forces that has been little noted. Sen. Brewster (Continued on Page Five)

The World and the Mud Puddles

LET'S HAVE MORE. A patriotic and ingenious teacher in a Midwestern country school lately interested his pupils in a sort of contest which brought worthwhile results. Following a course of several weeks of study of the governmental systems of our own and other nations, he asked them to write a paper stating what country they would prefer as their home, with the reasons for the preference. The answers were not only unanimous—testifying to his excellence of his teaching of history—but in some cases almost startling.

One girl of fifteen wrote that she preferred the United States because she could not only worship God without interference, but could choose her own ideal of God. Another, a youth, said that he wanted to become a writer, but that the only place he felt sure he could write (Continued on Page Five)

RULES FOR INFORMAL WEDDING

"I am going to be maid-of-honor at my sister's wedding. She will marry in a suit and the best man will be the bridegroom's brother. Please enlighten me on the following points: Are there any obligations that fall on me that I should know prior to the wedding? Should I kiss the bride and groom after the ceremony? There is to be a large reception at a hotel. How should the receiving line be formed and again what part do I play, if any?"

Answer: Bear in mind, as should all guests, that the first one to kiss the bride should be the groom. After that, her mother usually has the next privilege. Then, the other guests may kiss both the bride and the groom. In a wedding such as you describe, there is nothing for you to do but act as a witness and be gracious and charming at the reception. At a formal wedding, the maid-of-honor takes care of the bride's bouquet during the ring-placing in the ceremony and takes care of her train and veil, seeing that they are properly arranged for the professional and the recessional but you will not have these to attend to. At so informal a wedding only the bride and the groom need stand to receive the good wishes of the guests but the maid-of-honor and the mothers of both the bride and the groom may stand with them. The best man and the fathers usually circulate among the guests unless they especially want to be in the receiving line. Arrangements: The bride to the groom's right, next the maid-of-honor, the bride's mother, then the groom's mother who should be introduced to all guests whom she does not know.

Question: Would it be correct for me to wear a formal bridal gown with small train and my future husband wear his uniform? He is a private in the army. How about the best man and ushers? May they be civilians or must they also be in uniform?

Answer: You may, indeed, wear formal bridal attire including a train. The ushers and the best man may be in uniform or in civilian clothes. Men in the army and navy are required to wear their uniforms and if their friends are not in the service they may be members of their wedding parties nevertheless.

With the weather the way it is... sort of dopey like... we have but one thing to be thankful for... that being... no camping this summer. It seems that the last few times we have spent out in the country camping the weather has been like it has been the past few weeks... cold, damp and with dark uninviting days... then when it was time to go home the sun came out and the days were nice and comfortable... This year due to several circumstances it was impossible to make the annual trek... So as the fellow said... there is always some good in every situation... but sometimes you have to look too far to appreciate the good.

Cascade Park however is still getting a big play this summer... more organizations than ever are making the "park" their headquarters... and the folks who like swimming are using the large pool in large numbers... Really folks Cascade Park is a fine place and should be used by all of us for it is our park. So take your next picnic to the beauty spot and beat the traffic problem.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOFT DRINKS MAY HARM CHILDREN

While soft drinks are, obviously, safer for children than alcoholic beverages, many children consume far more than are good for them. It is amazing how much fizzy liquid from the soda fountain goes into children's stomachs, especially in summer. Some children begin drinking it in quantity as early as the age of four or five.

Let us consider this matter from three angles: nutrition, nerves, cost.

Considerable Sugar. Practically all soft drinks have considerable sugar in them. Children who consume one or several portions of such between meals may spoil their appetites for meals and for the proper foods. Besides, some children seem to upset their stomachs from excessive indulgence in such drinks, some kinds of them, at least.

Again, it is no secret that some soft drinks are physically stimulating, causing many children, as well as adults, to be jumpy and impairing their sleep. Some parents who would not think of giving a child from five to 12 a cup of coffee will let him have a soft drink which might have a similar or even a more exciting effect.

Then, what about the cost involved? For many children could have more milk if less of the family budget were spent on alcoholic liquors and on soft drinks which, except for the sugar in them, have practically no food value.

Parents would be much wiser to serve their children fruit juices or cold drinks made directly from the fresh fruits. Think how much wholesome fruit juice, with its natural sugar and vitamins, might be had for the money spent on soft drinks consumed by children!

Using Money Thriftily. Aside from the merits or demerits of most soft drinks, children who, from their early years, must have one or several servings of soft drink daily are not learning to use money thriftily, no matter what the family income may be. A budgeted allowance might help on this problem. My special bulletin on allowances may be had in a stamped envelope, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Just because other children have such things daily is no good reason why your child should. Of course, the child should occasionally enjoy some refreshments at the soda fountain, but the question I am raising concerns the proportions of the family income spent for such purposes, the bad effects of over-indulgence and habit of demanding luxuries whenever they are desired.

Belching after a meal is not injurious nor is it an indication of indigestion.

Some people are bothered with what they call gas. Elderly people are sometimes disturbed at night. This so called gas is usually not an indication of faulty digestion. It is sometimes a sign of some other trouble.

Sometimes a person has a pain or an ache or discomfort in the chest or abdomen. He takes something to make a belch. He feels better pretty soon.

He blames the trouble on "gas" and lets it go at that.

It might help some if he would have medical attention.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Word that Tom Dewey has been adopted by the Sioux Indians was coolly received at Democratic headquarters. They seem willing to let the Indians have him.

Of course the Sioux couldn't hail Tom as "The Great White Father"... That's reserved for the President. Tom is more the expectant father type.

But the future, wherever Sioux Indians gather, the governor will be known as "Brave Heart." Wherever Democrats gather they will have a different name for him.

Mr. Truman still is available for adoption by some good tribe. The Tammany Tribe has the first refusal.

But I hear that Tom won't stir out the house now without a bow and arrow... He's as bad as Wallace and the boomerang.

Hints On Etiquette

Looking At Life

By Erich Brandeis

The temperature is 85.
The humidity is 90.
It's getting hotter every minute, and if I had my choice I would certainly not be sitting at my typewriter trying to pound out a column.

When I left the country this morning it was nice and cool. We had breakfast on the porch, facing the brook, and I could have spent a perfectly glorious day under the trees with a good book and a cooling drink.

But duty was calling and on my desk upstairs was a pile of bills that had to be paid.

Duty—duty—duty—I murmured to myself as I put on a white shirt and a necktie and a coat and a pair of creased pants and my go-to-town shoes.

"Duty be d...ed," I thought, and I envied the bums and the tramps and the loafers who take life as it comes and care nothing for duty and ambition and obligations and civilization.

As far as I am concerned I could get along without all those requirements of modern society, and nothing would please me better than to give full sway to my innate laziness and natural inertia.

But, unfortunately, I also liked the so-called nice things in life, and it seems that the only way to get them is by working for them.

I have always enjoyed Omar Khayyam, the poet of laziness, much more than Berton Braley or Edgar Guest, who sing paeans of praise to industry, ambition and go-getting.

And, I have a suspicion, that most of you who toil and sweat and hustle, would rather take it easy and spend your time living rather than making a living.

But then, on the other hand, I understand that Omar Khayyam lived a poor man and died a poor man, while Berton Braley and Edgar Guest own their own homes, have automobiles and nice clothes, travel and move in the very best circles.

So, I suppose, unless we are satisfied to sit in rags under a tree with a jug of wine, we will just have to go on with our daily grind, no matter whether the temperature is 85 or 100, so that the world may say about us: "Isn't he a successful man?"

I envy the fellows with lots of ambition. I wish I were one of those to whom working is living, who take their business home with them and get as much fun out of making dollars grow as I get out of my flowers and my trees.

But to me—and I am sure to many of you—work is just a means to an end, and the week-end from Friday night to Monday morning is really all that matters, with the rest of the week just an unpleasant interlude.

I hope your children, whom you have taught all the virtues of toil and ambition, won't see this. But if they do, tell them:

"See what laziness does to you? You'll be a columnist if you don't look out."

If You Have Tax Tears Prepare to Shed 'Em Now
Observers See No Relief By Tax Cut Even in 1948
Foremen Are Peeved At John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Legislative experts that if the GOP tax reduction bill fails to become law this session and is revived next fall or spring, it will not have much chance of ever being enacted.

The crystal-ball gazers on Capitol Hill agree that the four-billion dollar tax relief measure, which would cut personal income taxes 10.5 to 30 per cent, reached the crest of its congressional strength on its second round through the mill and would poll less support next year.

There is a possibility that the next session of Congress will vote some reduction in taxes in an overall tax adjustment bill. Next year will be a presidential election year, and both Democrats and Republicans would like to throw the voters a little something.

However, with the rivalry between the United States and Russia becoming more intense, and with government costs sure to rise, any out-and-out tax cut bill is almost certain to have tougher sledding in the coming months.

FLYING DOLLARS—The flying saucers which had the nation's eyeballs popping apparently are mythical, but the aviation industry is seeing flying dollars—the real thing, that is.

The recent increase in congressional appropriations for Navy and Army plane construction means rapid progress in the production of new transonic-type aircraft, and "Brick Bradford" planes more sensational than the famed flying saucers.

Airplane factories are all set to produce flying machines with low aspect ratio wings, swept wings and tails, and jet propulsion refinements. Jet engine manufacturers are going all-out in anticipation of large orders from the Army and Navy. They are determined to outstrip the Russians, who are said to have accomplished wonders with the ME-262, a German twin-jet fighter.

Republic aircraft is grooming its P-84 for an assault on the world speed record of 623 miles per hour now held by the Lockheed P-80-R. Look for the Republic plane to attempt the record flight at Muroc Dry Lake, Cal., within the next six weeks.

GI TRAINEES—Some criticism is building up against the GI flight training program, but there is as yet no disposition in Congress to take any action.

Critics assert that the program is not improving veterans' job status in aviation, that

Annual Report Of Sunday Schools Being Compiled

All of the Sunday School Statistical Blanks are either in or the Sunday schools have been counted for the annual report to be made to the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association and the U. S. Government on the 127 Sunday schools in Lawrence County.

This is quite an undertaking and usually takes about one month to secure the required information. One difficulty in securing accurate statistics from the various denominations is that there is no standard way of determining when a person ceases to be a church member or Sunday school member. From all indications Lawrence County will show a small increase in church and Sunday school attendance this year. For a number of years the tendency has been in the other direction, so it is hoped that in Pennsylvania and the country as a whole, that the turn has been made.

The compilation work on the Statistical Book has been done by Laura Strickler who for a number of years was private secretary to the president of the West Virginia University and has had wide experience in making out reports. Each year the State Office at Philadelphia writes a letter of appreciation saying that the Lawrence County Statistical Book is one of the neatest and most accurate to be received from the County Sunday School Association of Pennsylvania.

Certificates were presented to those who enrolled and completed courses, during the week of the Institute. Among other things, the union leaders hope to find out just what the Taft-Hartley law really means for labor. They will give lectures on job standardization, collective bargaining and the labor movement in general.

Classes were held eight hours a day, including two hours at night.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

What he believed was the United States. Another point, a young immigrant girl, said she loved America because her father would not be put in jail or a prison camp, as he was in the old country, because he said what he thought.

"Selling America" on a practical basis. And it is "selling" in a place where selling is most needed, because youth with its idealism and sometimes mawkish sentimentalism is the richest field for Communist propaganda. There was a time in this country when patriotism was a major part of the teaching of the public schools, when for glorification of our American spirit, when even our political campaigns brought out the virtues of our Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

Somewhere, in our pursuit of athletics and dramatics and psychology and a dozen other courses—many of them apparently designed to provide easy "credit"—we have neglected the fundamentals of history and its interpretation in the light of what America means. Our young folk too frequently are afraid to cheer the flag or applaud patriotic sentiments, under a false sense of sophistication, or doubts inspired by insidious foreign aims. We have heard too much of "internationalism" and "peace worldism" that we feel apologetic in the face of suggestions that maybe our own country has some advantages and is entitled to first consideration.

The quiz of our Midwestern teacher—who ought to be devoted to national influence—bells down to this one question which should be asked, not only of every child, but every adult, in the United States: Do you know of a better country than this? If so, why not go and find it? The history of governments covers several thousand years. If there ever has been or is now, a better one than ours, let's hear about it.

came too late and that the principal character in the drama happened to be Hughes.

Hughes is the principal stockholder in Trans World Airlines. He recently stepped in to reorganize the company, which faced serious difficulties. Brewster is the chairman in the senate for Pan-American Airways. Pan-American, for other friends, but Brewster has persistently and consistently on every occasion taken up Pan-American cause.

Pan-American Airways has pushed a bill to create a "chosen instrument"—that is, a single airline, which, with the blessing of the United States government, would have a monopoly on overseas operation out of this country. The Pan-American argument is that only with such a "chosen instrument" can we successfully meet the airline competition of other countries.

The "chosen instrument" theory is bitterly opposed by the other airlines operating overseas. They are fearful that the "chosen instrument" would eventually be dominated by Pan-American, which is the pioneer in the foreign field, with years of experience back of its overseas operations.

Behind each side of this argument, powerful pressures have developed in Congress. So now Howard Hughes, one of the chief advocates of competitive lines, just happened to be in the center of the scandal that Brewster is probing.

Let's be all means set at whatever may be made in this business. Those same units of wrong-doing should be punished, and not merely by the public's voice.

But the investigation should not be dismissed by politics, as it seems to be. There have been persistent rumors about the influence used to determine airline routes. A number of senators have convenient connections with major airlines. Why not dig into the whole business and see what it's all about?

The matter has been covered up out of the truth, free-handed and ing that went on with government money during the war. We have heard a great deal of talk about the champagne parties given by shipbuilders at ship launchings. Learned specialists seem to friends related to sponsor the ship. And the taxpayer tested the bill.

The maritime commission compiled a list of those who received expensive presents. The matter has been before Brewster's own investigating committee for a long time. But nothing has been heard of it. San Brewster should realize that the target is a broad one. He need not be as selective in picking the objects of his investigative skill.

Annual Report Of Sunday Schools Being Compiled

All of the Sunday School Statistical Blanks are either in or the Sunday schools have been contacted, for the annual report to be made to the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association and the U. S. Government on the 127 Sunday schools in Lawrence County.

This is quite an undertaking and usually takes about one month to secure the required information. One difficulty in securing accurate statistics from the various denominations is that there is no standard way of determining when a person is or ceases to become a church member or Sunday school member.

From all indications Lawrence County will show a small increase in church and Sunday school attendance this year. For a number of years the tendency has been in the other direction, so it is hoped that in Pennsylvania and the country as a whole, that the turn has been made.

The compilation work on the Statistical Book has been done by Laura Strickler who for a number of years was private secretary to the president of the West Virginia University, and has had wide experience in making out reports. Each year the State Office at Philadelphia writes a letter of appreciation saying that the Lawrence County Statistical Book is one of the neatest and most accurate to be received from the County Sunday School Association of Pennsylvania.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

What he believed was the United States. Another pupil, a young immigrant girl, said she loved America because her father would not be put in jail or a prison camp, as he was in the old country, because he said what he thought.

"Selling America" on a practical basis. And it is "selling" in a place where selling is most needed, because youth with its idealism and sometimes mawkish sentimentalism, is the richest field for Communist propaganda. There was a time in this country when patriotism was a major part of the teaching of the public schools, when our national holidays were the occasion for glorification of our American system, when even our political campaigns brought out the virtues of our Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

Somehow, in our pursuit of athletics and dramatics and psychology and a dozen other courses—many of them apparently designed to provide easy "credits"—we have neglected the fundamentals of history and its interpretation in the light of what America means. Our young folk too frequently are afraid to cheer the flag or applaud patriotic sentiments, under a false sense of sophistication, or doubts inspired by insidious foreign isms. We have heard too much of "internationalism" and "one world isms" that we feel apologetic in the face of suggestions that maybe our own country has some advantages and is entitled to first consideration.

The quiz of our Midwestern teacher—who ought to be elevated to national influence—boils down to this one question which should be asked, not only of every child, but every adult, in the United States: Do you know of a better country than this? If so, why not go and find it? The history of governments covers several thousand years. If there ever has been or is now, a better one than ours, let's hear about it.

SLUM SURVEY

SAN FRANCISCO. — (INS) — Backed by a ten thousand dollar city grant, the San Francisco planning commission recently started on a six-month survey of a mile-square slum slated for complete redevelopment. According to the American Society of Planning Officials, the survey will produce a general redevelopment plan for the entire area and a detailed site plan for part of the area. Ways of financing the redevelopment also will be studied.

BACON BROILING

MINNEAPOLIS.—(Out of the frying pan and into the broiler is the new recommendation for cooking bacon from nutrition scientists at the Minnesota Experiment Station. Tests at this station showed that broiled bacon holds more of its thiamine (vitamin B1) than bacon cooked in the frying pan.

Remember all the different brands you smoked during the wartime cigarette shortage? That's when so many people discovered the milder, more flavorful pleasure there is in Camel's choice, properly aged tobaccos.

It was no fun!

But that wartime cigarette scarcity was a revealing experience to smokers... taught millions that cigarettes of different brands are not alike... that there are big differences in taste, coolness, mildness... in quality.

What Brand?

In those days of the wartime shortage, you took whatever brand you could get... a different brand every day sometimes. Naturally, people compared brands... for taste... for throat... for real smoking pleasure.

Even people who had never thought of changing brands tried Camels during the shortage. That's how more and more smokers learned that Camels suited them best. That's why...

cannot feel too sad that the principal character in the drama just happens to be Hughes.

Hughes is the principal stockholder in Trans World Airlines. He recently stepped in to reorganize the company, which faced serious difficulties. Brewster is the champion in the senate for Pan-American Airways. Pan-American has other friends, but Brewster has persistently and consistently on every occasion taken up Pan-American cause.

Pan-American Airways has pushed a bill to create a "chosen instrument"—that is, a single airline, which, with the blessing of the United States government, would have a monopoly on overseas operation out of this country. The Pan-American argument is that only with such a "chosen instrument" can we successfully meet the airline competition of other countries.

The "chosen instrument" theory is bitterly opposed by the other airlines operating overseas. They are fearful that the "chosen instrument" would eventually be dominated by Pan-American, which is the pioneer in the foreign field, with years of experience back of its overseas operations.

Behind each side of this argument, powerful pressures have developed in congress. So now Howard Hughes, one of the chief advocates of competitive lines, just happens to be in the center of the scandal that Brewster is probing.

Let's by all means get at whatever may be wrong in this business. Those found guilty of wrong-doing should be punished, and not merely by the publicity route.

But the investigation should not be circumscribed by politics, as it seems to be. There have been persistent rumors about the influence used to determine airline routes. A number of senators have convenient connections with major airlines. Why not dig into the whole business and see what the facts are? Too much has been covered up out of the lavish, free-handed spending that went on with government money during the war. We have heard a great deal of talk about the champagne parties given by shipbuilders at ship launchings. Diamond bracelets went to friends selected to sponsor the ships. And the taxpayer footed the bill.

The maritime commission compiled a list of those who received expensive presents. The matter has been before Brewster's war investigating committee for a long time. But nothing has been heard of it.

Sen. Brewster should realize that the target is a broad one. He need not be so selective in picking the objects of his investigative skill.

Man In Robbery At Zelienople Is Again Arrested

CARNEGIE, Pa., July 28.—(CNS)—Police today held a burglar, convicted recently in a case in which a companion was shot and killed, who they said, they trapped with a companion early today in the office of a Carnegie Jumber firm.

The two were John Romito, 46, and Joseph Troha, 21, both of Pittsburgh. Romito was convicted June 22 of the attempted burglary of a garage at Zelienople, Pa. He was free in $3,000 bond while the conviction was being appealed.

In that burglary, last April 1, a companion, Donald T. Wells, 42, of Pittsburgh, was shot and killed by police as he attempted to flee. Carnegie Police Chief Chris Keisling said a woman living near the lumber firm's office heard pounding and summoned police. Both men were taken in the office.

Twenty years was the average life span in the 16th century.

Man In Robbery At Zelienople Is Again Arrested

CARNEGIE, Pa., July 28.—(INS)—Police today held a burglar, convicted recently in a case in which a companion was shot and killed, who they said, they trapped with a companion early today in the office of a Carnegie lumber firm.

The two were John Romito, 46, and Joseph Troha, 21, both of Pittsburgh.

Romito was convicted June 22 of the attempted burglary of a garage at Zelienople, Pa. He was free in $3,000 bond while the conviction was being appealed.

In that burglary, last April 1, a companion, Donald T. Wells, 42, of Pittsburgh, was shot and killed by police as he attempted to flee.

Carnegie Police Chief Chris Keisling said a woman living near the lumber firm's office heard pounding and summoned police. Both men were taken in the office.

OUTDOOR MEALS GO WITH SUMMER FUN

Part of the fun of summer comes from eating meals outdoors. Very ordinary fare can taste like "food fit for a King" if it is served along with scenery and fresh air. Besides being fun, picnics should make less work for the cook yet meet the nutritional requirements of the family.

A picnic hamper or basket that contains plates, cups, silverware, and napkins is a good investment for the family who likes to picnic. An assortment of containers for carrying prepared foods is a welcome addition to the picnic hamper.

Cold drinks carried in a thermos jug contribute much food value to the meal if they are made from milk or fruit juices. Orange milk shake or lemon-limeade are suggested.

Slices of crisp raw vegetables wrapped in waxed paper make easy and attractive salads. Potato salad, cottage cheese, and fresh fruit salad are old favorites that may be carried in glass jars.

The main dish should furnish food protein to the meal. If all the food is prepared at home, tried chicken, baked beans, deviled eggs, sliced cold meats, or meat or cheese sandwiches, are excellent picnic main dishes. Often the family prefers to cook the main dish outdoors, using such foods as wieners, hamburgers, ham, bacon, eggs, corn on the cob, and roasted potatoes.

Whatever the menu, the important thing is to keep the food simple, easy to prepare, nutritious, and attractive. Try to avoid the sandwich and a bottle of pop variety of picnic. A really successful picnic furnishes a well-planned meal.

CHILL RAYON

Rayons that are hard to iron should be rolled in a damp towel, then in waxed paper, and put in the refrigerator to chill thoroughly.

In classic myth Cerberus was the man-headed dog that guarded the entrance to the infernal regions. Some early poets gave him 50 or even 100 heads, but later ones limited him to three. Serpents wound about his neck and a serpent's tail terminated his body.

The minaret is a tall turret used in Saracenic architecture. It contains a staircase, and is divided into several stories, with balconies from which the muezzins summon the Mohammedans to prayer—bells not being permitted in their religion. The minaret is terminated with a spire or ornamental finial.

The co-operative system has worked successfully in Finland for nearly 40 years. In 1939 there were more than 7,000 cooperatives, with a total membership exceeding 900,000. They handled about 25 per cent of the retail trade and 40 per cent of the wholesale.

POISON IVY

A U. S. GOVERNMENT BUREAU REPORT announces the discovery of a new tannic acid treatment for ivy poisoning. The treatment has been found excellent; it is gentle and safe, dries up the blisters in a surprisingly short time—often within 24 hours. These government findings are incorporated in the new product—IVY-DRY.

OUTDOOR MEALS GO WITH SUMMER FUN

Part of the fun of summer comes from eating meals outdoors. Very ordinary fare can taste like "food fit for a King" if it is served along with scenery and fresh air. Besides being fun, picnics should make less work for the cook yet meet the nutritional requirements of the family.

A picnic hamper or basket that contains plates, cups, silverware, and napkins is a good investment for the family who likes to picnic. An assortment of containers for carrying prepared foods is a welcome addition to the picnic hamper.

Cold drinks carried in a thermos jug contribute much food value to the meal if they are made from milk or fruit juices. Orange milk shake or lemon-limeade are suggested.

Slices of crisp raw vegetables wrapped in waxed paper make easy and attractive salads. Potato salad, cottage cheese, and fresh fruit salad are old favorites that may be carried in glass jars.

The main dish should furnish good protein to the meal. If all the food is prepared at home, fried chicken, baked beans, deviled eggs, sliced cold meats, or meat or cheese sandwiches are excellent picnic main dishes. Often the family prefers to cook the main dish outdoors, using such foods as wieners, hamburgers, ham, bacon, eggs, corn on the cob, and roasted potatoes.

Whatever the menu, the important thing is to keep the food simple, easy to prepare, nutritious, and attractive. Try to avoid the sandwich and a bottle of pop variety of picnic. A really successful picnic furnishes a well-planned meal.

CHILL RAYON

Rayons that are hard to iron should be rolled in a damp towel, then in waxed paper, and put in the refrigerator to chill thoroughly.

In classic myth Cerberus was the man-headed dog that guarded the entrance to the infernal regions. Some early poets gave him 50 or even 100 heads, but later ones limited him to three. Serpents wound about his neck and a serpent's tail terminated his body.

The minaret is a tall turret used in Saracenic architecture. It contains a staircase, and is divided into several stories, with balconies from which the muezzins summon the Mohammedans to prayer—bells not being permitted in their religion. The minaret is terminated with a spire or ornamental finial.

The co-operative system has worked successfully in Finland for nearly 40 years. In 1939 there were more than 7,000 cooperatives, with a total membership exceeding 900,000. They handled about 25 per cent of the retail trade and 40 per cent of the wholesale.

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—Marie McDonald, famed as "The Body", has returned her hair to its natural brunette and she intends to let it stay that way for a long, long time.

When your reporter innocently suggested that he liked her a wee bit better as blonde, Marie lifted her long lashes so she could give him a full eye save and said:

"You don't seriously mean that. You wouldn't want me really to remain a bleached blonde the rest of my life, would you?"

"All I'd ever get would be bleached blonde parts and can you imagine anything worse than that? No, as a brunette I'll do much better."

Doris Day, lifted by Mike Curtiz to stardom in her first picture, thinks that being in the movies is simply wonderful.

She's near the end of the picture, "Romance in High C" at Warners and she hopes to go into her second, co-starring with Frank Sinatra, in the fall.

"I'm having lots of fun in Hollywood," she said. "But, as much as I like being in pictures, I wouldn't stay here if I didn't have fun."

Doris' singing has the whole studio enraptured. She's the girl, if you recall, who walked into Curtiz' office, completely unknown, and landed in pictures. It doesn't happen very often.

Stuart Erwin has at last realized an ambition. He's a producer as well as an actor. His first picture, adapted from the play "Headin' For Heaven", is now before the cameras.

Glenda Farrell and Russ Vincent are in the chief supporting roles. It's a co-operative venture, with Erwin, Vincent, Director Lewis D. Collins, and George Moscov, production manager, sharing. They plan to produce six medium budget comedies under the name of Ace Productions.

Ginger Rogers will produce her first picture, "Wild Calendar" for Enterprise, only when she is completely satisfied with the script. She intends her first to be a pip. Now that she's winding up "It Had To Be You" at Columbia, she and her husband, Associate Producer Jack Briggs, plan a two weeks vacation at their Oregon ranch.

They've bought lots of new fishing tackle. Nothing like having a river run right through your place.

Safe Robbery At Finance Company Office Is Foiled

takable sound of someone hammering on metal in the upstairs rooms of the finance company, whose safe was ripped open by safe robbers only two weeks ago. Hurrying to the police station, he gave the alarm, and Officers Thomas and Price responded in the cruiser car. Arriving at the scene, they parked the police car in the Apple Way, alongside the building in which the finance company offices are located, and went up the front stairs. They saw that it was dark inside, and Dawson, hearing them, broke a window and tried to escape over the roof in the back, by whence he had entered the building by crawling up the fire escapes in the rear. The officers raced around to the back of the building, and with flashlight in hand and gun at the ready, Officer Thomas dashed up the fire escape. He met Dawson on the roof, who said, "I give up." As Thomas reached for his handcuffs, Dawson struck the officer across the left shoulder with his sack of burglar tools, which he was carrying, the sack being made of woven fibre material. Officer Thomas then fired his gun into the roof, and called for Price to come to his assistance. The desperate robber, cornered and fearing arrest inevitable, tried to stave it off, and grappled with Thomas for his gun. Dawson is a big fellow, larger than either Thomas or Price, and Thomas, fearing that Dawson might get the weapon away from him and shoot him, threw the gun away on the roof and went after him with his bare hands. In the scuffle, Thomas tripped over a vent pipe on the roof. He had also lost his flashlight, but Dawson was visible as he was wearing a white sweat shirt. Dawson was forcing Thomas to the edge of the roof, and was dangling partly over the edge, when Price arrived at the top of the fire escapes. He tried to keep Thomas from falling over the edge, by sitting on his legs, when Dawson launched a murderous attack on him with a bar he had been using in trying to break into the safe.

Officers Shoots Price was struck over the head, receiving a slight fracture of the skull. In the battle Dawson used every technique he knew in rough and tumble fighting, striking with the bar and kicking with his feet. Finally, when it looked like Dawson would get the upper hand, Officer Price drew his gun, which he had cocked in the holster when going up the steps, and fired as

At one o'clock this afternoon the condition of John William Dawson, wounded man, was reported as still very serious, but that he had had a fair night. Chances for his recovery seemed more brighter, Jameson hospital authorities stated.

Dawson came at him again in a crouching position, the bullet striking him in the left breast, just under the nipple, and tearing its way through his body, emerging on the other side, just above the kidney.

By this time, Officer George Hill, who was patrolling the beat in the vicinity of Mill and Washington streets arrived, and assisted in handcuffing Dawson, who although seriously wounded, was still battling. Leaving Hill in charge, with orders to fire at anyone who struck his head up, Thomas and Price took the injured bandit to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where he was given emergency treatment, and then put to bed under guard. Officer Russo taking the first shift, to be relieved later by Officer Nick Cubellis.

Officers Injured Thomas and Price had their injuries dressed, and X-ray examination was made of Officer Price's injuries, revealing a possible fracture of the skull. He was taken to the hospital Sunday afternoon and put to bed, when his head continued to bother him. Examination also revealed a fracture of the little finger on the left hand. Officer Thomas has a laceration of the right index finger, and is badly bruised where he was struck by the sack of burglar tools.

According to the officers, Dawson knew all the tricks of dirty fighting, and used them against them. After Dawson had been put to bed, and the police officers had received emergency treatment, Officer Thomas went to Dawson's room.

Looking up and recognizing him, Dawson said: "Well Chief, I'm sorry for all the trouble I caused you. I hope I die." He asked Thomas to shake hands with him, which Thomas did. Sunday, Thomas visited him again, and the bandit again apologized.

Hunt Possible Accomplice

In the meantime, the area surrounding the block in which the finance office is located, was blocked off, and local police aided by state police with sub-machine guns and riot guns, conducted a search of the area in the belief that Dawson had an accomplice. Search lights were secured from the fire department, and were taken up onto the roof, bathing the scene in a bright light, but after carefully combing all areas, the search was abandoned about 11:30 o'clock when it became apparent that if Dawson had a lookout, he had made good his escape.

The local officers were fortunate in not running into a bandit of the killer type. As far as could be found, Dawson was not armed, and he told Officer Thomas in the Jameson Memorial Hospital Sunday, that even had he been successful in getting his gun away from him, he would not have shot him. Police authorities are rather inclined to agree in this, as the offense of armed robbery is much more serious than if a man is caught on such a job and is unarmed.

It is believed that he was just fighting off the officers to try and knock them out and make his getaway. He told Chief Hanna in the hospital Sunday morning, "I almost made it, too."

Dawson's condition was recognized as critical, and Chief of Police Robert D. Hanna, State Policeman Fred J. Norris and William J. O'Brien, went to the hospital and questioned him. He stated that he had worked the job alone. Asked about the $27.50 which was found in his possession, Dawson replied "That's just chicken feed. I've spent $25.00 since the first of the year, which I got from other jobs."

This was about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning, and Dawson's condition seemed to be growing more critical. Assistant District Attorney Errol Fullerton and Court Stenographer Faunt M. Rowland were summoned, to take down any statement that Dawson might make in regard to his operations. However, the desperately wounded man refused to talk, only stating that he had worked alone on the job. He would reveal nothing about his activities, but at times boasted that he had pulled some big jobs.

Brother Notified Dawson's brother, Clarence Dawson, of R. D. 1, Monaca, was notified that the wounded bandit was in a critical condition, and he came to the hospital about one o'clock in the morning to see him. He told the authorities that he had not seen his brother John more than about six times since he was committed to the Ohio State Reformatory at the age of 11 years. Police were a little skeptical of this statement, however.

Dawson also asked to have his girl friend, Mrs. Lee Baldwin, of 734 Jefferson street, Baden, notified. State Policemen Norris and O'Brien went to Baden to locate her, and finally found her. She was brought here at 4 a. m. Sunday where she is being held on a charge of suspicion.

She claims that she has known Dawson only a short time, but the officers found that Dawson was rooming at the Baldwin home, and has been for several months. Dawson, himself, told the authorities they would gain nothing from questioning her. He said he would not be so foolish as to tell her anything about his operations, and maintains that she thought he was a big-time gambler and made his money gambling. He said that when he came to New Castle to pull the job here, that he had told her he was going to Wheeling.

"Just A Nice Kid" "She's just a nice kid, but she doesn't know anything," he concluded.

That he was not the man who robbed the Household Finance Company safe two weeks ago was definitely established, when they found among his effects, a receipt for a $100 money order sent by telephone.

graph to his girl friend, Lee Baldwin, on July 13, from Elko, Nev. The technique on the two jobs was entirely different, also. The robbers who were here two weeks ago, used a "can opener" type tool in ripping open the front of the safe, where Dawson had knocked off the dial, and was using a punch to knock out the mechanism.

His attempt was a most daring one, and he might have gotten away with it, but for the alertness of Fire Chief Harper. Dawson told police that in two more minutes, he would have had the safe open and would have been gone. Besides the sack of burglar tools, he carried a woman's handbag, presumably to carry away the loot.

Probe Activities

State police and Chief Hanna are conducting a further investigation into Dawson's recent activities and his background. He has served two prison terms for robbery, one of ten years in the Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, and another of ten years in the West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville, besides a three year sentence in the Ohio State Reformatory, he admitted to the authorities.

He may have been responsible for a number of jobs which were pulled off in the Beaver Valley about the same time the epidemic of safe robberies occurred here, which were finally traced to a local gang, now serving sentences for their crimes. The battle with the robber, and the search which followed, attracted several thousand people to the scene, who risked chance of being shot to join in the excitement, and the police had to use drastic measures to keep the crowd back.

Officers Thomas and Price are today receiving the congratulations of many citizens for their heroic battle and the capture.

Officer Price regretted deeply that he had to shoot Dawson, stating that it was the first time in his 12 years as a police officer that he had been forced to use his gun.

Sunday, Sheriff Frank L. Copen took over the task of guarding Dawson, and has placed local constables on the job of guarding the prisoner.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning, Dawson, realizing that his condition was critical, requested that he be baptized, and Rev. Oliver W. Hurst, of the First Baptist church, went to the hospital and administered this rite.

Chief of Police Robert D. Hanna this morning said that, sometime today he would swear to an informant against Dawson, in which the latter would be charged with burglary and felonious assault with intent to kill.

Eight Sentenced For Setting Series Of Fires At Paoli

WEST CHESTER, July 28.—
(INS)—Seven volunteer firemen and one other defendant were sentenced to the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill today for setting a series of fires near Paoli for the fun of putting them out.

The eight youths, ranging in age from 19 to 22, were accused of starting fires within three weeks amounting to total damage of $69, 175. Two other alleged members of the gang are juveniles and will be tried later.

The arsonists were first put under suspicion when officials noted the "remarkable speed" at which they arrived at the fires after the alarms had been sounded.

Guard Armory To Be Improved

GROVE CITY, July 28.—Extensive improvements are being planned for the Pennsylvania National Guard

materials and labor are available.
The building, erected in 1903, is in need of repairs. It must also be modernized to handle the equipment of the field artillery company which is being organized.

Headquarters of 112th Infantry were for many years in Grove City, but after the reorganization of the Pennsylvania guard following World War 2, the headquarters were placed in New Castle.

Capt. Thelma Dundon Gets Adjutant Rank

Made Adjutant After Career Of Ten Years Of Service In Salvation Army

Captain Thelma Dundon of the local Salvation Army corps has received a promotion and officially been made an adjutant of the corps after ten years of service. Her career has been reviewed by the territorial commander, Donald McMillan, of the field department of New York, and found to be eligible of the rank of an adjutant.

A change of insignia will be found on her uniform with an embroidered silver 'S' on a silver star placed on a red felt background with military epaulets of solid red on the shoulders. The arm band on her sleeve is red with black braid. This will replace the insignia of captain which consisted of two rows of red braid with a red 'S' on a felt background on the collar.

Adjutant Dundon became a Salvationist in 1934 in West Philadelphia and worked in the corps as a soldier until she became a candidate and went to Training College in New York City in 1936 for one year. Her first work as a lieutenant was at Greensburg where she spent one year in charge of the detention home after where she spent six months in field work at Little Washington. This was followed by one year of work with married people in Johnstown when she was promoted to the rank of captain and was placed in her own corps at Jeannette, Pa. Coming to New Castle in February 1944 after serving four years there, ten years have been completed qualifying Miss Dundon for the rank of adjutant.

Much has been accomplished at the local Salvation Army corps since the arrival of Adjutant Dundon with her charming personality and perseverance being of great assistance to her.

A mortgage of $1,000 was burned during her first six months of service here. Practically all members of the corps are new with a total of 30 senior soldiers and 30 junior soldiers of which 12 of the senior soldiers are in full uniform. Approximately 15 young people are wearing Salvation Army sweaters with emblems on them and the boys are wearing caps of the corps. A station wagon has been purchased, a new sign erected in front of the home where approximately 100 young people meet weekly during the winter. The Sunday School has recently purchased two dozen chairs for the primary department. The project at present is a lighted bulletin board for the front of the building.

She was ably assisted by Lieutenant Mary Verner and Lieutenant Grace Hotchkiss who are now in charge of the corps at Jeannette, Pa.

SUPERVISOR'S UNION DONE

PITTSBURGH, July 28.—(INS)—The Mine Supervisors' union, caught between the Taft-Hartley labor law and John L. Lewis' new contract with the coal operators, goes out of existence next Friday. John A. McAlpine, president of the union—the United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees of district 50 of the United Mine Workers, said fate of the union was sealed when Lewis' new contract not only agreed supervisors would be exempt from membership in his union, but that no efforts would be made to have them organized.

Born in New Castle, December 31, 1884, he had been a resident of Shelby for the past 35 years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Louise Waddington, a daughter, Ruth, both of Shelby; his father, B. L. Grouse Likes Tractor Rides

WHITE SALMON, Wash., July 28.—(INS)—Rancher R. L. Peck has a real grouse about his farm work. He's Grouchy, the grouse, an uninhibited wildfowl with a weakness for farm tractors. Grouchy likes to ride 'em and the noiser the better. The rancher first became aware of Grouchy in spring plowing last year. The wild blue grouse came out of the brush to ride the hood all day, every day.

Grouchy Vanished
He vanished when the soil was tilled. This spring the rancher again began to plow. Imagine his surprise when Grouchy glided out of the woods for his tractor ride! Grouchy got his name because he doesn't like news photographers, and he "grouches" too much when the tractor is put away for the day.

Special Program At YWCA Camp On Sunday Night

Camp Eastbrook girls at the Y. W. C. A. camp were all "aglow" Sunday night when they took their special night swim after the candle-light service.

Some of the girls are expert swimmers and divers, and put on a show worthy of a veteran swimmer. They found some sparklers left over from the Fourth of July, and holding the lit sparklers in their hands, executed breath taking maneuvers from the diving board. The swan dive and the back flip took on more significance than ever, with the sputtering sparklers outlining the girls' forms.

Preceding this display, a cook-out had turned into a cook-in just as big rain drops fell. Wieners, fruit, cake, and lemonade tasted just as good around the huge fire in the dining hall as it would have outside.

Paper Drive Planned For Margaret Henry Home Fund Raising

According to announcement from Mrs. Alvin Herberg, chairman of the Eagles auxiliary fund for improvements at the Margaret L. Henry Children's Home, a paper drive is planned for the middle of September to add to the funds for the home improvements.

Cooperation has been promised from the Pennsylvania Motor Truckers Association through Fred Clark, president of the association. Tentative dates set for the drive are September 13 or 20, when it is anticipated that the citizens of the city will rally to the cause with their donations of paper and magazines. Magazines are especially desired. The drive will be city wide.

In connection with the drive for funds, three additional checks have been received to bolster the total already received. Checks have come in from the P. H. C. Service Star Legion, Inc., and the Sons of Italy.

Pilgrim Church Plans Open Air Services

Local Residents Are Home From Mahaffey

Most Successful Encampment Of Christian And Missionary Alliance Comes To Close

Many local residents have returned to their homes in this city, following the close of the annual camp meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance held at Mahaffey, Pa., Clearfield county on Sunday.

The camp, pronounced the most successful in its 50 year history, was presided over by Rev. E. C. Anderson, district superintendent, Western Pennsylvania and former pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street. Three thousand made their home on the grounds in cottages, tents, dormitories and trailers, with other thousands coming in daily for the services. The large tabernacle where the main services are held was unable to accommodate the Sunday throngs that came in for the services.

The services began, Friday, July

Special Program At YWCA Camp On Sunday Night

Camp Eastbrook girls at the Y. W. C. A. camp were all "glowing" Sunday night when they took their special night swim after the candle-light service.

Some of the girls are expert swimmers and divers, and put on a show worthy of a veteran swimmer. They found some sparklers left over from the Fourth of July, and holding the lit sparklers in their hands, executed breath taking maneuvers from the diving board. The swim dive and the back flip took on more significance than ever with the sparkling sparklers outlining the girls' forms.

Preceding this display, a cook-out had turned into a cook-in just as bit rain drops fell. Wieners, fruit, cake, and lemonade tasted just as good around the huge fire in the dining hall as it would have outside.

Saturday night the campers started a hare and hound chase which proved what it must be more fun to be chased than to chase, because the hounds never did catch up with the hares. So when the hares got back to camp they calmly sat down and waited for the hounds, who appeared a few moments later, somewhat bearagreed.

Paper Drive Planned For Margaret Henry Home Fund Raising

According to announcement from Mrs. Alvin Herberg, chairman of the Margaret Henry Home fund for improvements at the Margaret L. Henry Children's Home, a paper drive is planned for the middle of September to add to the funds for the home improvements.

Cooperation has been promised from the Pennsylvania Motor Truckers Association through Fred Clark, president of the association. Tentative dates set for the drive are September 12 or 20, when it is anticipated that the citizens of the city will rally to the cause with their donations of paper and magazines. Magazines are especially desired. The drive will be city wide.

In connection with the drive for funds, three additional checks have been received to bolster the total already received. Checks have come in from the P. H. C. Service Star Legion, Inc. and the Sons of Italy.

Pilgrim Church Plans Open Air Services

Members of the Pilgrim Holiness Church, Nesheamock avenue, plan to hold open air services in the city, each Friday evening, weather permitting. It is announced by the pastor, Rev. Clifford L. Duncan.

The members of the church will hold meetings in the 100 block of West Long avenue, on a vacant lot, where it will not interfere with traffic. The first meeting was held on the lot last Friday evening, where 12 years ago, Rev. Duncan opened his first mission in the city.

PERMIT TO BUILD

Derry-Ford City; Tarentum-Groveton Play In Tourney Here Tonight

Scottdale, Jay-Bees, Bessemer Victors In Games Over Weekend

Scottdale Wallops Indianola 10-2; Johnson Bronze Upset Ford City 8-4, Saturday

Bessemer Defeats Nemacolin 6 To 3 Sunday; Tourney Continues Tonight

The Bronze combined two big innings, the third and seventh, in annexing their fine win, to advance in the tourney, bunching hits off of Frank Shaffer who gave up in the seventh frame in favor of Bonio. Herman besides pitching a fine game all the way, belted out three hits in the pinches that helped out, while Henry Marshall, Johnny Maguski and Jimmy Tropea did some terrific batting. Syzanski was the best hitter for Ford City, with two hits, while R. Cigola rattled off a double.

The Bronze displayed great batting power when hits were needed and are installed as a tough team to beat from here in, under the guidance of the veteran Mike Duffley.

Bessemer Impressive
Bessemer's heavy hitting club with big "Steamer" Stanley on the hill, entered the quarter finals Sunday afternoon in the only game played, by downing Nemacolin 6 to 3 in a most impressive show of fielding and batting.

The Lawrence County team just walked through after getting to Kott in the fourth for a pair of runs and coming back in the sixth with a three-run attack, sending Kott to the showers. Stanley was never in serious trouble all afternoon, fanning four men and giving out two walks. The only extra-base hits in the game were made by Anderson of the visitors, and McLaughlin of the home team. Stanley had two hits apiece for the Jim Martin managed fire-balls. Nemacolin kicked in with six errors that hurt them.

Bessemer looked very good and will be tough to beat here in, playing a very snappy brand of ball. Bessemer defeated Indianola earlier.

National Baseball Congress state tournament fans sat in on three games over the weekend, watching the Scottdale team defeat Indianola 10 to 2 to put the Indians three losers, out of the tourney, the Johnson Bronze Jay-Bees advance to the quarter finals by an 8 to 4 defeat of Ford City. Bessemer also entering the quarter-finals with a defeat of Nemacolin Sunday 6 to 3. Tonight the tourney will continue with two more games on the card, in the losers bracket the Ford City team will meet Derry Vets, and in the second game two other once defeated teams Tarentum Swirlings and Groveton will battle. Legion Humbles Edenburg 8-1 To Climb Over Idle Moose; Saints Top Castles EDENBURG, July 28.—The County league race resembles the antics of a tipsy elevator operator as a first one team and then another ascends to the top of the heap.

Today it is again the Wampum Legion who are sitting astride the loop peak, passing the idle Ellwood Moose by lambasting the Edenburg Tigers Sunday, 8-1.

Veteran Frank Powell dug into his bag of tricks to hurl the victory, issuing 10 hits but keeping them well spaced and firing shut-out ball after the first frame.

Joe Mills and Emil Fontana, each with three blows, featured the 13-hit Wampum barrage, battering Tigers pitchers B. Olive and Lesigovich.

The Tigers pulled one of baseball's rarities in the game—a triple play, involving Biddle, J. Exposito and F. Olive.

Universals Rack Up 22nd Straight Win

JANACONE HURLS POTTERS TO WIN

Richard "Saipan" Janacone, pitched the Universal Pottery to its 22nd straight city league win, for an all time city league record Sunday, as he threw an assortment of curves, a change of pace and a hard fast one at the Dewsies for a 9 to 1 easy triumph. Janacone gave up but eight hits and kept them scattered. The losing hurler was Majors who was chubbied for 13 hits. Six Dewey errors hurt.

Heading the hit parade for the Potters was Steve Hutnick. Pete Razzano, Evenoski, and Dick Janacone, the latter two having three hits apiece. Best for the Dewsies was Fred Riley with two hits. The Universals are sailing along as city league leaders with apparently no sign of cracking.

Dodgers Trim Pirates Twice, Increase Lead

Brooklyn Now Has Seven Game Lead, Cards Stopped

(International News Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, July 28.—Brooklyn's Dodgers seem bent today upon making more of a runaway out of the National League race than the New York Yankees in the junior circuit.

Brooklyn's current lead of seven games compares favorably with the Yankees' margin of 9 1/2. Even with secondary pitchers in action, the Dodgers made it nine straight wins their longest winning streak of the season, by taking two more from Pittsburgh yesterday, 8 to 4 and 11 to 4.

Cards Stopped
The six-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals was snapped when Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves stopped the champions 10 to 3.

Boston's Red Sox are not making any great progress in the American League race despite their seven-game winning streak. The Yankees, baying along without the services of their two best pitchers, Spec Shea and Spud Chandler, have lost only two games of the 11 1/2 game lead they enjoyed before their winning streak of 19 straight was snapped by Detroit ten days ago.

Williams Clouting
The circuit clouting of Ted Williams, who has whacked five homers in four days, has been sparking the Red Sox. Yesterday he got No. 23, a prodigious clout that landed in the Boston center field bleachers beyond the 420-foot mark, to give Tex Hughson a 4-to-3 decision over the St. Louis Browns. Dave Ferriss beat the Browns in the nightcap, 11 to 2.

Meanwhile the Yankees got no better than a Mexican standoff in their twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. In the opener, they chased their old pal Red Ruffing and went on to win 7 to 4.

In the second game, Joe DiMaggio, Johnny Lindell and Togi Berra, a pinch hitter, homered for New York, but Chicago won out in the ninth, 5 to 4.

Detroit's Tigers downed Philadelphia 5 to 1 behind Fred Hutchinson but Dick Fowler of the Athletics held them to four hits in the second game and blanked them 5 to 0.

Indiana Top Nats
Early Wynn of Washington held Cleveland to five hits but the Senators' five-game winning streak was snapped when they lost 2 to 1. The Indians won this one thanks to good relief pitching by Bob Feller.

The consecutive home run streak of the Giants was stretched to 15 games when the New Yorks slaughtered the Cubs, 12 to 6, under a 16-hit barrage which included Bobby Thomson's 19th homer.

The Phillies broke a six-game losing streak by beating the Reds 6 to 5 in eight innings after Cincinnati won the opener, 5 to 1.

Graziano Is Still 'In Dutch' With New York Solons

See No Relenting Of Commissioner Egan On Lifting Of Suspension

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS)—Rocky Graziano, self-admitted "bad boy" king of the middleweights, is still on the outside looking in today so far as the New York state boxing commission is concerned.

The word along the dunes of Jacob's Beach lately has been that Rocky might gain some sort of special recognition from his home state next Wednesday night at Ebbets Field prior to the Gus Lesnevich-Tami Mauriello bout for the benefit of the Damon Runyan cancer fund.

According to the story from this eminent key to the flattened profile, Rocky was to be presented that night with a silver belt emblematic of his championship which he won a six-round TKO of Tony Zale in Chicago.

Commissioner Eddie Egan squelched these reports, however, with a brief and all-inclusive "no."

Pre-season football drills will open at Penn State August 24, less than a month before the season's opener against Washington State.

Dodgers Trim Pirates Twice, Increase Lead

Brooklyn Now Has Seven Game Lead, Cards Stopped, Yanks Split Two

LES CONKLIN

(International News Service Editor)
NEW YORK, July 28.—Brooklyn's Dodgers seem beat today upon making more of a runaway out of the National League race than the New York Yankees in the junior circuit.

Brooklyn's current lead of seven games compares favorably with the Yankees' margin of 9½. Even with secondary pitchers in action, the Dodgers made it nine straight wins, their longest winning streak of the season, by taking two more from Pittsburgh yesterday, 2 to 4 and 11 to 4.

Cards Stopped
The six-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals was snapped when Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves stopped the champions 10 to 3.

Boston's Red Sox are not making any great progress in the American League race despite their seven game winning streak. The Yankees, battling along without the services of their two best pitchers, Spec Shea and Spud Chandler, have lost only two games of the 11½ game lead they enjoyed before their winning streak of 19 straight was snapped by Detroit ten days ago.

Williams Clouting
The circuit clouting of Ted Williams, who has whacked five homers in four days, has been sparking the Red Sox. Yesterday he got New York a prodigious clout that landed in the Boston center field bleachers beyond the 420-foot mark, to give Tex Hughson a 4-to-3 decision over the St. Louis Browns. Dave Ferriss beat the Browns in the nightcap, 11 to 2.

Meanwhile the Yankees got no better than a Mexican standoff in their twin bill with the Chicago White Sox. In the opener, they chased their old pal Red Ruffing and went on to win 7 to 4.

In the second game, Joe DiMaggio, Johnny Lindell and Tom Berro, pinch hitter, homered for New York, but Chicago won out in the ninth, 5 to 4.

Detroit's Tigers downed Philadelphia 5 to 1 behind Fred Hutchinson but Dick Fowler of the Athletics held them to four hits in the second game and blanked them 5 to 0.

Indians Top Nats
Early Wynn of Washington held Cleveland to five hits but the Senators' five-game winning streak was snapped when they lost 2 to 1. The Indians won this one thanks to good relief pitching by Bob Feller.

The consecutive home run streak of the Giants was stretched to 15 games when the New York Yankees slaughtered the Cubs, 12 to 6, under a 16-hit barrage which included Bobby Thomson's 19th homer.

The Phillies broke a six-game losing streak by beating the Reds 10 to 3 in their last game after Cincinnati won the opener, 5 to 1.
